Notice the radio studio at 5:17, see the driver is holding a microphone in his hand...the driver IS the voice we hear at 5:18 Does your telephone have access to the internet? Most likely, they do. Have you ever dialed *67 to see what your phone number looks like in a different city. Mine has now been blocked for who knows how many years, but I have the numbers saved. Amazing, isn't it? My wife has taken our old phone and replaced it with a smart phone. We decided that it was time to get a replacement. The problem is, since our old phone was set up by our provider, we don't know how to set up the replacement. My wife has reached out to the telephone company to get access to the settings, but so far, I haven't been able to understand much of what they are saying. This is really beginning to irritate me. Why can't they spell things out and make it simple for us, the consumers, to understand. It's called smart phones and I thought that was pretty obvious, right? If they make it difficult, maybe it's because we're not using them all the time. They're obviously there, or we wouldn't need them. But, since they're there, why can't they help us with a simple thing like this? I wrote a letter to the local office, to no avail. I just talked to the DRIVER they hired for the evening and he told me to have my wife call them and she'll be able to solve the problem with their company. That's fair enough I suppose, but it really makes me want to leave this town so that I can avoid the company. So, for now, at least, my new smart phone is hidden in a drawer, unseen.
